Headline:
Further showers today, turning wintry on the hills. Feeling cold.

Today:
After a cold and frosty start, showers will begin to feed into North Sea coastal districts, especially during the afternoon. The showers will penetrate further inland later in the day, and turning wintry, especially on the hills. Feeling rather cold. Maximum temperature 3 deg C (37 deg F).

Tonight:
Rather cloudy, with further outbreaks of showery rain and hill snow. The most frequent and heaviest of the showers will be along North Sea coasts. Less cold than recent nights. Minimum temperature 0 deg C (32 deg F).

Sunday:
Further showers feeding in from the North Sea, these merging to give longer spells of rain and some hill snow. Feeling cold in a light to moderate east northeasterly wind. Maximum temperature 3 deg C (37 deg F).

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:
Staying cold and showery throughout the period, with the showers turning wintry, especially on hills, but not exclusively. Cold by night, with fairly widespread frost and icy patches forming.
